De Gaulle Offers U.S. Bases In Free French Africa

Interview With Leader Of Free France Reveals Invitation To America

George Weiler's notable interview with Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of Free France, who discloses his offer of West African bases to the United States in the fight against Hitlerism, was passed by the press authorities in French Equatorial Africa without censorship or emanicipation—EDITOR.

BRASSEVILLE, Sept. 3—(CDN)—"I am not keeping facts secret any longer. I have offered the United States the use of the principal ports in Free French Africa as naval bases against Hitler. I have offered them upon the basis of a long-term lease, analogous to the plan under which Britain is offered her Atlantic bases to the United States. But I have not asked for any destroyers in return. I have asked only that the United States make use of these bases to counteract Dakar and make it more difficult for Hitler to thrust deeper into Africa, as he undoubtedly will do as soon as he is able to release some forces from Russia."

With these words, uttered in quiet, confidential tones, Gen. Charles De Gaulle, the tall, angular George Washington of the new France, a frank talk with this writer today revealed that he had invited the

CHARLES DE GAULLE

Gen. de Gaulle smiled faintly. "You have grasped the reason for my offer to the United States," he said again.

Asked whether in his opinion the Casablanca-Dakar railroad being built by Polish miners and engineers of the Free French had been shifted into A.O.F. (French West Africa) from French concentration camps, he said: "It is a fact that the railroad goes to the United States, de Gaulle shook his head.

"Not particularly. That is just a fact. Dakar was the strongest base in West Africa before that, and it is even stronger now. The decision to shift the railroad was divided. It falls into Nazi hands, is not somewhere in the future but immediately. Immediately, it is only the lack of material that kept Hitler from using A.O.F. and that situation is dependent only on the arrival of the first ships of war aircraft from the eastern front."

At no time during our 45 minutes did Gen. de Gaulle flinch, say that unconfessed Nazis were already in French West Africa but he emphasized repeatedly that only the arrival of the first ships of war strength along the African curve could handle them if they chose to land. The established French air bases in the characteristic Nazi 24-hour style.

"My answer," he said, "is that there is no more reason to believe that the United States should break its word of honor and keep the French base beyond the term of the lease or the period needed as defense against Hitler, than there is to believe that the United States in the last war before attacking France help against the same enemy."

Asked what result he believed American entry into the war would have upon the French, Gen. de Gaulle said:

"In my opinion the effect would be disastrous."

"Does the American attitude toward Vichy then really mean so much to the average Frenchman?" asked the interviewer with a suggestion of irony which Gen. de Gaulle did not fail to catch.

"I believe that one step ought to lead before long, to the other," said Gen. de Gaulle.

When the interviewer shifted the topic to the Pacific, Gen. de Gaulle again spoke unequivocally and straightforwardly:

"Free France numbers among its members the islands of New Caledonia and New Hebrides. They will play an important role in the coming struggle in Southeast Asia," he said.

Would France lend them to the United States as naval bases in case of need?"

"I am not suggesting that the French public is looking toward America for a cue to its political attitude," he said. "But I am suggesting that the situation which is clearly defined. It would be seen that America at last has taken an unequivocal stand in favor of helping Hitler. We know already what the average Frenchman's attitude toward Vichy is. The relations of the French government with the American government would indicate to him that the American government's attitude was consistent with what I demonstrated. Vichy was consistent with policy toward Berlin."

Asked whether Vichy's position would be changed if the United States broke relations with Vichy and accepted our use of West African ports, Gen. de Gaulle replied:

"Possibly nothing very much would happen. It would not be unusual for Vichy to remain in its struggle against Russia. Both the United States and Vichy would be in the same boat."

He was asked if he believed that he had been Angloized by his long collaboration with the British. "No, not at all," he said. "He spoke in firm French, but totally without a trace of orotoric flourish or the like. He was much more simple and direct than is customary in public leaders."

He made no particular effort to impress his views upon the interviewer, simply stating them as he went along. He was calm, with a solidly calmness and matter-of-factness. He gave full evidence that he understood the meaning of the word "leader." He was asked to comment upon the United States' position, which he believed to be that the United States was sending Gen. Harry F. Cushing and not him to Africa. "I prefer to withhold comment upon that subject," he said tersely.

DE GAULLE'S BRIEF

The interviewer asked whether he believed the United States would send him to Africa.

"I do," said the general. "Without delay. Immediately."

What he means by that Vichy might, despite all evidence to the contrary, still change color and rejoin Hitler, said the American general. "He should be able to establish bases within the Gulf of Guinea as a sequel upon the African advance into Africa Occidentale Francaise."

AS CHIEF

"Then you do not believe that the United States should attempt to take Dakar by force at any time, but that they should be able to do so?" asked the general. "Yes, I do. I believe that the United States should be able to establish bases within the Gulf of Guinea as a sequel upon the African advance into Africa Occidentale Francaise."

Take measures there whenever the British fleet, under whose orders we stand, considers such steps expedient.

"What about Marlinique?"

"The situation is the same as the United States. The safety of Marlinique is equally so," said Gen. de Gaulle. "The situation there is the same as naval units under Admiral Georges (short) command of Guadeloupe. I have the probability that he is sympathetic to us. He is in the officer ranks but the entire administration is sympathetic to us. If the United States navy should receive an order to do so, I am reasonably sure that Admiral Georges would attempt to resist. But I believe that he would be reasonable enough to surrender without serious bloodshed when he finds that his obligation towards the Vichy régime had been discharged."

PEOPLE ARE HEALTHY

"How is the health of the people?" asked the interviewer. "How is the situation?"

"I am not a politician," said Gen. de Gaulle. "But I think that technical changes are necessary in the administration of French democracy, making it resemble closer the American. The French needs a good administration in which liberty of speech and assembly are preserved but executive powers are given over longer periods of time. I mean that like the American constitution, in which cabinet officers have the probability of being recalled by the people. Live machinery thereby gains stability."

DOING TRANSALPINE

"What is the transalpine nature of our cables?" asked the interviewer. "How is the transalpine nature of our cables?"

Poles Still Fighting For Rebirth Of Their Republic

Armies In Exile Fight Against Nazi Tyrants; Confident Of Victory

While in Warsaw as an accredited press foreign correspondent, Lloyd Lehman saw the second Great War begin two years ago. He wrote dramatic accounts of the bombing of Warsaw and the Nazi blitzkrieg that destroyed Poland in a month. From authoritative sources he has developed a picture of what has happened to Poland in captivity.—EDITOR.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3—(AP)—"Poland will live again!"

Poland still are singing that line of their national anthem, and those who escaped the Nazi blitzkrieg of their native land two years ago still are fighting for the rebirth of the Polish republic.

The same heroic phrase, says Jan Czochanski, the Polish ambassador to the United States, is singing in the hearts of 20,000 Polish leaders and ex-soldiers in exile in their homeland.

The republic of Poland today continues to be a Polish nation in exile in London. Polish troops in action in Europe and the Middle East, Polish planes in the skies over Europe, Polish naval volunteers are being organized and in training, in Soviet Russia and Canada.

HOPE FOR POLAND

Poland's hope for the future lies in the Polish fight-inside and outside Poland—and the pledges by Great Britain and Soviet Russia, after two dark years, that the republic of Poland will be reborn when Nazi domination has been vanquished.

The Polish have established in London a government under the presidency of Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz, with General Wladyslaw Sikorski, the Prime Minister of Poland, as his successor's rule in their homeland.

This Polish government's white paper, issued after an information smogged out of the country by Polish agents, claims that the Nazi hordes of Poland, a land of hunger, stark fear, wrecked churches and schools, executed and tortured, and methodical deportation.

The latest White Paper (issued Aug. 19) charged that at least 7,000 Polish citizens were killed in massacres that wiped out entire villages and towns.

Another 100,000 have been assassinated, the White Paper reported, was Stefan Starzynski, the heroic mayor of Warsaw.

Draftee Pays $1,300 To Fly To Glamor Girl

SEATTLE, Sept. 3—(AP)—An infantry corporal, who chattered on an air line Tuesday to fly from Oklahoma to California, said last night he had been visiting Miss Cabin Wright, New York's glamor girl actress, and that she had come to see him.

The draftee is Palmer E. Beaudette, who paid $1,300 for the United Air Lines plane to avoid overpaying the fare of absence from Fort Lewis.

He said he had visited Miss Wright at a ranch near Reno, Nev., where she had been married November 14 in New York.

Beaudette told the story of the romance of his flight to California at an expensive rate at Seattle's leading hotel about his spectacular flight. He said he had been married to Miss Cabin Wright, who has maintained his residence at Fort Lewis. He is from Los Angeles as his home town. He was asked questions as to his background, said he was the grandson of J. W. Beaudette, who was a Ford manufactured model-T bodies for the Ford motor company before he went into business for himself.

The mother, who is also named Cobina, talking on the telephone from a ranch 20 miles south of Reno, said:

"We find him very charming and the last time I saw him there is no truth in all the statement that Cobina will marry him."

The mother said her daughter has been in touch with him, and declined to call him to the telephone.

NEUTRAL COUNTRY CAUGHT IN WAR CROSSFIRE

Switzerland Is Under Economic Thumb Of Axis Powers

Trade Jurisdiction Over
Tiny Nation Accomplished
Without Invasion By Army

BERN, Sept. 3—(AP)—Switzerland's predicament today shows what can happen to a small, neutral country caught in the crossfire of economic warfare. It demonstrates how economic jurisdiction over a nation can be accomplished without military invasion or political subjugation.

Victory Is Only
Way To Liberty,
Casgrain Says

TORONTO, Sept. 3—(CP)—Hon.

Pierre Casgrain, secretary of state for Canada, told a Canadian National Exhibition audience last night in a message read at ceremonies marking the 50th anniversary of the Canadian National Defense Day, that the exhibition that "every nerve of the nation should be bent towards winning the war" and said that "without victory, it is the end of our prosperity, of our freedom and of our happiness."

"Our country, along with the British Empire and the free nations of the world, has declared war against a threat to our dear old freedom and our standing in the world."

"Those who have forgotten that you would not deserve to have us to fight for them, will find that the loss, not only of their liberty but also of their daily bread."

Speaking at the Canadian Wing of Ottawa, speaking on the same program, said: "We know that the greatest verities of democracy have been tested. We know that the Swiss people accept responsibility and the disposition to criticize our leaders and to demand an accounting of those of whom they are most proud."

Mrs. August Belmont, head of the American Red Cross, said that "a magnificent army is emerging from the American training fields."

In fact, in one year is nothing short of a miracle,"

Colonel Hull, United States secretary of state, said in a message read at the ceremonies that the "axis of free nations" every day stands in opposition to the result of aggression by nations bent on world domination."

Mr. George Casgrain, and the United States have come to the realization of a closer solidarity based on mutual interests and mutual will. Mr. Hull's message was read by John Miller, president of the C.N.C. association.

Gas Is Located
Under Barracks

CALGARY, Sept. 3—(CP)—Investigation of a gas leak at Young's No. 2 Supply Depot R.C.A.F., East Calgary, scene of an explosion Saturday in which 35 men were killed, has been averted by averted repetition of the disaster it was learned Tuesday.

Mr. Young's team showed natural gas was leaking in the was wing of the canteen and recreation building. His investigation led to the conclusion that it was under two other buildings, one of them sleeping quarters for airmen.

These credits are then checked off against the amount of gas received in payment in francs and the Germans in marks, each from his own clearing house. No money changes hands—no goods.

Chaplain Named

TORONTO, Sept. 3—(CP)—Lieut. Col. George C. Falls, senior Protestant chaplain of Military District No. 2, Toronto, has been appointed chaplain of Royal Canadian Dragoons, Toronto, captain of the British Columbia regiment of the 10th Infantry Brigade, now stationed in the Yukon. He was responsible for the removal of the regiment from the Yukon, where he had been stationed with the Church of England for three years.

E. W. Belcher, vice-president of Canadian Western Natural Gas Co. Ltd., and Col. George C. Falls, president of the Canadian Light, Heat and Power Co. Ltd., confirmed the report that fuel gas was responsible, but that the gas leak at the depot had been stopped.

The pockets of gas are believed to have come from a leaking gas main. Originally it was believed several gas accidents were responsible for the explosion.

Some Varsity
Courses Have Fewer Pupils

Although no final figures are available yet, enrollment in the faculty of applied science, the faculty of applied science, and the schools of commerce, engineering, and law have decreased at the University of Alberta. Their total enrollment is expected to be below that of last year, officials said. The registrar's office stated Wednesday, Saturday was the last day for receiving applications for admission to the courses.

A. E. Ostell, registrar, outlined plans to regularize in all faculties to meet the demand. "It is, however, too early to predict to just what extent," he stated.

Registration of all first year students and new students in the second year will begin on September 23, while registration of students in the college of education and all other schools in the faculty of arts, including the schools of commerce and household economics, takes place on September 24.

OTHER COURSES

All other applicants in the faculties of dentistry, agriculture, applied science and law will register on September 23. Physical examinations for all students will be held on September 25. Lectures on all courses begin on September 26. Starting on September 26 and continuing through the fall semester, the "freshman" introduction committee, is busy laying plans for this year's round of orientation. The committee, which is decked out in all new students with the colorful green and gold seal cap, and welcoming them to the university, has a complete week of social events.

Jack The Ripper
Has Busy Night
Shashing Tires

An Edmonton "Jack the Ripper" put in a night of nefarious work Tuesday and city police are on the look-out for him. G. Argus, 1929 96th Street, reported that the hooded figure had been thrust through the right front tire of his car, parked in front of his home. William F. Oster, 8538 102A avenue, reported two tires, the rear right and spare, slashed. Oster also stated that two tires on his landlady's car nearby were likewise sliced.

Salvage Effort
Being Delayed

Request to the Dominion government for the Dominion government to be sent to western Canada to help in problems holding up an efficient salvage effort in the west has been stayed by the Edmonton civic Salvage Committee, headed by J. T. McCreadie, city purchasing agent and secretary of the committee.

High freight rates on scrap metal and other forms of salvage have prevented the west from shipping its waste from door to door. A nationwide campaign to collect salvage, it has been stated by the committee, will be started when it has been collected by line elevators in northern and central Alberta. The west is in a position to bring out its waste of means of shipping rust for use as means of shipping it to market.

Ilsey Interviewed

A delegation, which represents the Alberta Provincial Society, Inc., interviewed Hon. J. L. Ilsey Wednesday, asking for a lowering of the monthly alimony of $200 and an increase of the monthly alimony from $20 to $30.

Meeting of the "France For Ever" Association will be held at 8 p.m. Friday in the Edmonton Credit building, 1609 101A avenue.

MAJOR FOUR TIMES

Major John W. Fry, who has been elected four times as mayor of Edmonton, has announced that he is undecided with regard to his place in the election committee. If the committee consider it expedient he should contest the mayorality again this fall, he will be a candidate.

Dorothy Dix Says:

One of the greatest mistakes that parents make in dealing with their children is in not realizing that praise has the same effect upon them as it has upon adults. It is uplifting and inspiring. It is the Archimedes lever that moves the world.

Dorothy Dix
tell it how dull and stupid and blundering I is.

Of course, the fathers and mothers who bring up their children on the nagging theory are not intentionally bad parents. On the contrary, they love their children and they are keeping their faults and weaknesses to themselves. But the parents are blissfully unaware that they are doing them the greatest harm that any parents can do to their children, for they are establishing inferiority complexes in their young sons and daughters which will fail to move them to fail as long as they live.

What parents forget is that they are their children's public and if the young ones get into trouble, they feel just as bad as the parents. They are blissfully unaware that they are doing them the greatest harm that any parents can do to their children, for they are establishing inferiority complexes in their young sons and daughters which will fail to move them to fail as long as they live.

Parents, however, are not the only ones who are turned out that all their efforts to improve their children seem to get nowhere.

"I have a son who is trying to act like a little gentleman and he still comes dragging into the house like a wild animal," says one concerning Mary's posture, but nothing I can say keeps her from trying herself to be a good mother. "I do it myself, I simply am not willing to know what to do with my children. I don't seem to have any influence with them. I often hear that we had a wall from fathers and mothers."

Also, children take their parents' estimation of themselves as final, and if all of their virtues are passed over, they are sure that they are always turned on their mistakes and blunders, they feel that they have been beaten in the battle and found wanting, and there is no use in trying to do better and to be what they can never be.

Parents, however, are not the only ones who are turned out

that all their efforts to improve their children seem to get nowhere.

"I have a son who is trying to act like a little gentleman and he still comes dragging into the house like a wild animal," says one concerning Mary's posture, but nothing I can say keeps her from trying herself to be a good mother. "I do it myself, I simply am not willing to know what to do with my children. I don't seem to have any influence with them. I often hear that we had a wall from fathers and mothers."

Of course, children have their own ways of getting along, and only when it is deserved. It should be remembered, however, that if it is the moment of hope that makes a youngster feel that he can go to achieve what it wants in the world.

Tell your children how good they are, but they can be better.

REMEMBERING MANY THINGS IS NOT ALWAYS A SIGN OF A GOOD MEMORY

The more ability to remember a vast number of things does not mean that you have a good memory at all, says Psychologist Dr. Knight Dunlap. He says: "I think that many people are under the impression that good memory is too inclusive and too retentive memory. They may retain too many things, and this is a weakness of memory... People are not able to remember as many things as they are able to remember. People with good memories are selective in the things they remember, and the things they recall on any given occasion."

McCoy Health Service

The well-known physiotherapist is devoted to the physical management, medical and therapy, meaning treatment. Physio-therapists then means a treatment of the physical body. This includes the use of air, light, water, and electricity. In other words, the use of natural methods is the treatment of disease.

Not so very many years ago, doctors did not use electric equipment for treating disease, regarded by their colleagues as quacks and charlatans, but through the years, the use of these methods has been well when other methods had failed and electric-therapy is now considered to be the most important branches of the medical art.

The underwater treatment for reconstructing paralytic muscles has been well demonstrated at Warm Springs, Georgia, and many other spas are using this method. Underwater treatment has proven especially beneficial in certain types of paralysis, such as polio, sunburn or the application of the ultra violet ray has proven very effective in the treatment of skin diseases and the use of this ray helps the body to absorb calcium and phosphorus, which is best in sunlight but many doctors have special lamps so that patients may use the rays at any time.

Due to the use of the ultra violet ray it may cause blindness if allowed to enter directly into the eyes, so it is important that the doctor and the patient use special glasses when treating with this ray. Electro-therapy has also come along under the heading of physio-therapy and most readers are aware of the use of this form of a sufficient amount of exercise, and those who have been made sick and weak by the use of this practice, some form of manipulation and have been benefited, will testify to the value of this school of treatment.

Various aches and pains are often relieved by the use of heat and for this purpose, the electric lamp may be used. The action of this lamp is to increase the amount of blood in a given area and it relaxes the tissues.

Inexpensive heat lamps are obtainable at the drug stores and I recommend the judicious use of one of these household aids. The difficulty with placing any electrical or resistive heat lamp is the question is that he usually thinks that if a lamp does a little good, a lot will do a lot more good. The only question regarding the distance the lamp should be from the body and the length of time it should be applied should be clearly studied and the instructions carried out to the letter.

One of the most remarkable discoveries in recent times is the short wave diathermy, and many remarkable things have been done with the use of the ultra short wave. Most of the hospitals and institutions have short wave diathermy equipment and they should be clearly studied and the instructions carried out to the letter.

Those readers who would like to have further information on the subject may write to the author, or may be interested to see Dr. Fred M. McCoy's special article entitled "Physiotherapy—Treatment of Disease" in the McCoy Health Service enclosing a large addressed envelope and one cent postage.

All questions regarding Health and Diet will be answered. Large stamped addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service in care of the paper.

Wrong Way To Ask For A Date

Your manners tell tales about you and how well you story goes around. Just because you got a date with the girl you like doesn't mean you can "Get this one taken" and she and her friends will think you a fool to avoid.

But you're correct and decent. "May I have this dance?" you can start a mighty fine romance. And if she says "No" you can say "Well, this is one dance. Edie" — and not a bad one either.

After the dance you can thank her, perhaps with "I enjoyed that" or "You're a popular girl" will reply "I did too" and "Or she may just smile graciously.

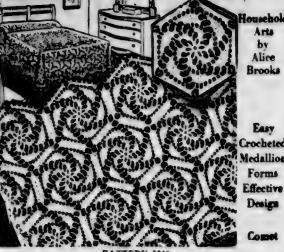

The popular girl is the one who should be avoided, while the girl who is in the dating game. At the moves she steps into the row of seats and she always seems to leave a room. But she lets her beau step out of a car first, smilingly accepts his coat and then she learned that if you know dating rules you get lots of chances to show them.

One-page booklet, with etiquette rules for both men and girls, will be sent on request. Order theatre, dance and movie dates. Give rules for visiting, introductions, entertaining, travelling, business, and social life.

Send 15¢ in coins for your copy of "Etiquette for Young Men and Women" by Dr. Fred M. McCoy, McCoy Health Service, 60 Front Street West, Toronto, Ontario. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Man Is Convicted Theft Kin's Auto

Charged with the theft of an automobile, Robert E. Fitzsimmons, Edmonton business man, Thomas E. Fitzsimmons, Chicago resident, was found guilty in district court Tuesday by His Honor Judge Mathison and was given a suspended sentence of six months.

The accused, his cousin testified, took the car without his knowledge, but he was released by the police after an information had been laid.

He said the car had been purchased in the accused's name from a Chicago firm. This was done, he stated, to facilitate the financing of the deal, the finance company would not deal with a non-resident. Finances for the purchase were arranged with the wife of the late Mr. Arthur Purvis.

Before the transfer could be effected, however, the accused disappeared with the car and concealed it with it in his possession.

Modern Puzzles

By GERALD L. KAUFMAN

FROM THREEES TO SEVENS.

Certain pairs of three-letter words can be joined by a single letter to make seven-letter words. For example, HUM and RUM can be linked by a D to make HUMDRUM, shown in the diagram. Each three-letter word listed here belongs in one of the groups of three cells. Each can be joined to one of the others by a single letter, to make a seven-letter word.

First find which triplets you can link together and determine the right letter to use. Then see if you can put the resulting seven-letter words in the correct order as the centre column, reading downward, spells a seven-letter word.
